

LESSON V - INDUCED TRANSITION

SUPPORTING MATERIAL: INDUCED TRANSITION

Welcome to the Module II titled 'AWARE'

The objective of this lesson is to familiarize you with the counterproductive habits we fall into that take us away from Transurfing's ideal heightened state of awareness, a state where there is an abundance of free energy.

We are endlessly being hooked by pendulums into participating in feeding them, by overly worrying and focusing on events such as disasters, war, unemployment, epidemic, social panic and poverty.

When we 'FEED' pendulums our mental/emotional energy we get caught up in the pendulum's vortex. This is when we experience an induced transition.

This unfavourable event takes us away from beneficial, prosperous life tracks and transport us directly to life lines that are not favourable and do not support us or our goals.

In this lesson we will learn how to recognize the moment just before an induced transition is about to occur and how to avoid this from happening.

REALITY TRANSURFING STEPS I-V CHAPTER V INDUCED TRANSITION - THE GENERATION SHIFT

SUMMARY

- Everyone creates an individual layer of their own world.
- If the world were the same for everyone, after several generations life would become a living nightmare for everybody.
- Every individual creates their personal reality that intersects with the rest of the world at large.
- Transurfing makes it viable to return to a place where colours are richer, first impressions more vivid, dreams attainable, music is richer, the climate more favourable and life sweet.

THE PENDULUMS VORTEX

SUMMARY

- Do not allow negative information into your layer
- Joy and abundance served less of a purpose throughout human evolution than fear and rage, that is why we as humans so easily connect to and through these latter negative emotions
- The media is a prime example, by the use of negative information, a pendulum can capture your thought energy to then perpetuate the situation
- “Do not allow” does not mean strive to avoid, but rather, to intentionally ignore, to express no interest

Q & A

- Q: Why does getting caught in the vortex of a pendulum transport you to another life track?
- A:
- Q: What are some examples of how to ignore an induced transition?
- A:

So we have spoken of the populist media, one of the more powerful and destructive pendulums, but what are the pendulums that the media represents. Disaster, war, unemployment, pandemic, poverty, fear, panic. These are all fragments of larger more powerful pendulums we shall call the matrix and as such independently have the power to offer an induced transition. Feeling sadness or guilt for the homeless man on the street corner, focusing on disease outbreaks, and following news events on disasters and war are all hooks to get you onto an induced transition scenario. Firstly you will lose free energy and secondly you will transition from whatever life track you are on and be transported to a life line resonating with your emanating thoughts and emotions/feelings, one possibly where you are at the centre of an actual disaster.

THE INDUCED TRANSITION - DISASTER, WAR, UNEMPLOYMENT, EPIDEMIC, PANIC, POVERTY.

SUMMARY

- An induced transition is accompanied by a negative event in a personal life layer
- Aggression is mistakenly taken to be a strength and dissatisfaction as a normal reaction
- When a person emanates negative energy they compromise the quality of their own life layer
- The vibration of thought energy radiating from a person who gives their attention to tragic events is hooked in the same way as it is by a television series.
- Anyone who looks for negative information will always find an abundance of it.
- If you ignore the prod of a destructive pendulum you will never end up in a catastrophic event or least the probability of it happening will be close to zero
- To 'let something pass you by' means not to absorb or react to negative information; simply ignore it and switch attentions to harmless programs.
- Panic generates the most intense and quickly induced transition
- The destructive pendulums sways even higher when you are suffering emotionally

Q & A

- Q: Why is this information pertinent to a successful Transurfing experience? ●
A:
- Q: What is the simplest way to keep yourself from becoming a victim of a pendulums vortex and an induced transition?
A:

CONCLUSION

According to Transurfing, focusing on misfortune, tragic events and unfortunate circumstances only lead to you becoming a victim of these scenarios yourself. This means that we do have control, we must recognize, acknowledge and then use the power of this information. If we chose to remain plugged into these pendulums, experiencing induced transitions will become a way of life and thus our free energy remains depleted. If you manage to become and remain aware of the game being played and take appropriate action in unplugging yourself from the game you will notice an immediate difference in your energy level, mood and surroundings. According to Transurfing, we cannot change the negative aspects of the world we live in “the image in the mirror” but we absolutely can change how we manage these aspects in our own personal layer and our response to them. When you respond according to the suggested guidelines in Transurfing, you will be existing on a higher frequency level and the world will take notice of this. Your light will shine brighter and your higher frequency will attract the attention of others. It is all a positive chain reaction from there. A shift will take place, people will favour you, and you will start thriving in a whole new way that will undoubtedly improve not only your quality of life but will support others around you in the awakening process. Focusing on negative events does absolutely nothing for the good of humanity, actually the opposite occurs. You raising your awareness and existing on a higher frequency will and assist in raising the all of our collective consciousness.
